INSAP XIV: EXTENSION FOR ABSTRACT SUBMISSIONS

The deadline for submitting an abstract to the INSAP XIV conference, 'All Roads Lead to the Sky', which will take place in Monte Porzio Catone and Rome from 5 to 11 October 2026, has been extended to 14 June 2026 at 23:59 (UTC+2).

INSAP meetings bring together the sciences, humanities and arts to explore how celestial phenomena have shaped human history and culture. By combining academic research with artistic performances, these events provide a comprehensive perspective on the universe and reflect on the impact of the night sky on our lives.
The Rome edition will focus on the following themes:

- Astronomy and Cosmology Through the Ages.
- Astro-Architecture and Celestial Symbols.
- Art and the Celestial.
- Philosophy and the Cosmos.
- Astronomy and Myth/ Narrating the Sky.
- History of Science.
- Space Exploration and Human Imagination.
- Environmental and Ethical Implications of Space Exploration.

To submit a proposal please go to https://indico.ict.inaf.it/event/3535/. At the bottom of the page is the link to submit your abstract; on the bottom of the box on the left are the instructions; and, below that, is an email address you can contact should you run into difficulties uploading your abstract.

Please tell your friends and colleagues. They can join the INSAP mailing list through the following link insap.org/contact/ and learn more about INSAP at insap.org.

Thanks to those of you who have already submitted an abstract.

With very best wishes to all – We hope to see you in Rome and Monte Porzio in October!
